Sen. Huddleston Re-Elected By Landslide Tuesday

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — While Sen. Walter Huddleston, D-Ky., basked today in his landslide second-term victory, Kentucky Republicans celebrated their acquisition of a third congressional seat among seven.

The mixed results were part of the so-called election Tuesday, featuring a light turnout except for the 6th District, where Republican state Sen. Larry Hopkins of Lexington defeated Democratic state Sen. Tom Easterly of Frankfort.

The Bluegrass race was the only suspenseful one, and the outcome gave the GOP its first 6th District congressional post in a half-century and the second since the Civil War.

Hopkins' triumph by several thousand votes also gave the Republicans a continuous strip of congressional territory stretching from the Ohio River to the Tennessee border.

Despite this accomplishment, the Senate race went overwhelmingly to the 52-year-old Huddleston, an Elizabethtown broadcast executive who garnered about 60 percent of the vote and won even the GOP stronghold of the 5th District.

That bolstered the party's lineup, which has been Democratic since 1972 when Huddleston defeated former Gov. Louie Nunn despite a statewide landslide for President Nixon.

Huddleston, who planned to spend a week in Arizona on vacation, said the size of his victory shows Kentuckians support his record and that the Panama Canal treaties controversy was not such an important issue as Republican challenger Louie Guenther and the GOP claimed.

Huddleston had been criticized by his foes for what they called slavish support of President Carter on all national and foreign issues. In turn, he cited his record and said that state interests would be served by his further seniority.

Guenther, a 34-year-old lawyer and three-time legislator, was hobbled by a lack of active support from the GOP establishment, which did not believe he could win, and by Huddleston's much higher name recognition and heavier financing.

The 6th District outcome was really no surprise, though it was an irony because Easterly, a lawyer with labor ties, had defeated Democratic incumbent John Breckinridge last May and seemed a shoo-in against Mary Louise Foust, an elderly GOP foe from Shelbyville.

When Miss Foust quit the race and Hopkins was nominated to replace her, the ball game changed and the state Republican leaders threw all their resources into a chance to gain a seat.

Hopkins, a 45-year-old stockbroker, had to do what Breckinridge failed to accomplish — turn out the Lexington vote to offset Easterly's strength in Frankfort.

The Republican managed it and, as it turned out, also could afford to lose most of the rural counties in the process.

Easterly, 38, was undaunted by the loss and indicated he might try again in 1980 when he will likely be challenged by ambitious Democrats in Lexington.

Hopkins, in a victory address, said the people had spoken and defeated the old political machinery, an oblique reference to the fact that Democrats outnumber Republicans almost 5-1 in the 6th District.

However, Hopkins outspent Easterly by about three-to-one and the state Democratic machinery hardly began moving for Easterly until a few weeks ago.

The other congressional races were ho-hum affairs.

Democratic incumbents Carroll Hubbard, in the 1st, and William Natcher, in the 2nd, had no opposition.

Democratic incumbent Romano Mazzoli easily overcame three foes in the 3rd, no longer sweating out the issue of school busing as in his previous race.

Democratic incumbent Carl Perkins, the dean of Kentucky's delegation, had no trouble against token opposition.

Republican incumbents Gene Snyder in the 4th and Tim Lee Carter in the 5th were re-elected without any trouble.

Voters Here Support Democrat Huddleston

By LOWELL ATCHLEY
Staff Reporter

Calloway County sided with the rest of Kentucky Tuesday, voting to send incumbent U.S. Senator Walter "Dee" Huddleston back to the Senate for another six year stint.

Huddleston outpolled his nearest opponent, Republican Louis Guenther, 1,293 votes to 501 here. Anthony McCord, the American Party nominee polled 31. Susan B. Anthony, a write-in candidate who appeared on the local ballot in a number of precincts, ran fourth in the race, logging 13 votes here. The likeness of the pioneer crusader for equal rights for women will soon appear on the dollar coin.

As in the May primary, the county recorded another small voter turnout Tuesday with less than 12 percent of over 15,000 registered voters showing up at the polls.

According to unofficial tabulations, 1,822 voters were cast in Tuesday's election. Some 15,365 are registered here.

Building Program On County School Board Agenda

Calloway County School Board members are expected to review three on-going construction projects in the school system when board members convene for a regular session Thursday night.

The board meets at 7 p.m. in school administrative offices on College Farm Road.

School superintendent Jack Rose is expected to review middle school, field house, and track and field construction during the meeting. Rose, in a superintendent's report, is also slated to talk about recent revenue bonds sales on the school.

Other items on the agenda for the session are:

- Discussion of the utility tax audit, property insurance and bids on food and supplies;
- Various personnel recommendations;
- A closed executive session for an unspecified personnel matter.

Local election officials attributed the puny turnout to the lack of contested races.

Some Republicans appeared pleased with Guenther's showing in Calloway County as election officials tabulated votes in Calloway County Court Clerk Marvin Harris' office Tuesday night.

Both Don Henry, himself a candidate for a non-partisan school board seat in the city, Huddleston's county campaign chairman, and Z.C. Enix, county Democratic Party chairman, attributed Guenther's strength in this heavily Democratic county to Huddleston's Panama Canal vote.

First District Rep. Carroll Hubbard, unopposed in his bid to go back to the House, gathered 1,479 votes here. Write-ins included State Rep. Kenneth Imes, Richard Hutson, Susan B. Anthony, Burton Falson and Pat Wolf.

Five persons were on the ballot unopposed for school board seats on the city and county school board. In Murray, Tom Rushing led voting with 525 votes, Henry, the current city school board chairman, polled 487 while Bill Adams Jr. received 442 votes. In District 1 of Calloway County School System, Walter Byars, an incumbent received 65 votes while Jerry "Red" Overbey, who'll replace Joe Dyer on the board, received 182 votes. Marie Posey received a write-in for city school board.

Democrats Retain Solid Control In Congress Despite GOP Gains

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
AP Political Writer

Republicans scored an apparent gain of at least two Senate seats and more impressive victories among governors in midterm elections, but the Democrats retained their solid control of Congress and state governments.

And in the year of the tax revolt, voters in 12 of 16 states sent an unmistakable message in ballot proposals to cut taxes and curb government spending.

At mid-morning, the final count in a close Senate race in New Hampshire gave Republican Gordon Humphrey, an Allegheny Airlines pilot, a narrow victory over Sen. Thomas McIntyre, the 16-year Democratic veteran.

Ralph Ed Graves Says He'll Seek Governor's Seat

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Ralph Ed Graves has announced his resignation as commissioner of the Kentucky Department for Local Government in order to enter the Democratic gubernatorial race.

Graves, who previously served three terms in the Kentucky House of Representatives, said that he would accept no single campaign contribution greater than $25.

"For too long," Graves said, "those with big money and a special interest to promote have had too much influence in the public's business."

"I want to be able to serve every single Kentuckian as governor without being influenced by big money contributors," Graves told a news conference on Tuesday.

"Put yourself in the position of having given several hundred dollars or even several thousands of dollars to a candidate for governor."

"If your candidate wins, wouldn't you expect some special considerations? We simply cannot afford to continue that practice," he added.

"I ask all of you to face this issue with me and do something about it."

See GRAVES

Humphrey had made McIntyre's support for the Panama Canal treaties a major campaign issue.

In Texas, Republican Sen. John Tower narrowly led his Democratic challenger, Rep. Robert Krueger, after a long night that showed the lead changing back and forth throughout the night.

Overall, with the GOP Senate candidate John Warner an apparent winner in Virginia, it appeared that Republicans might pick up three seats in the Senate and at least 12 in the House — only about one-third of the average postwar gain for the minority party in off-year elections.

6-Year-Old Struck By Car Tuesday; Injured Slightly

Murray-Calloway County Hospital personnel treated and released six-year-old Jimmy Page, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Page, 1402 Poplar, Murray, after the youth was struck by a car about 2:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Murray City Police say the incident occurred near 1317 and 1319 on Poplar. Police identified the driver of the vehicle as 18-year-old David Lance Furches, Route 4, Murray.

A police spokesman said the incident happened as city elementary schools ended classes Tuesday afternoon.

According to a police report filed in connection with the incident, Furches said as he approached the child he slowed down, but the child ran out in front of his vehicle. The report indicates the youth was hit by the front bumper just as the vehicle came to a stop, knocking the child down on the pavement.

The spokesman said the driver was traveling west. He noted that three buses were headed east on the street near Fourteenth Street when the accident happened.

The police spokesman said the youth received bruises to the head and body.

'Music Man' To Open Here Thursday Evening

By LEWIS BOSSING

"The Music Man" is coming to Murray for four performances.

On Thursday, Meredith Wilson's "The Music Man" will be presented at A. Carman Pavilion by the Murray-Calloway County Community Theatre.

"In what has to be our most ambitious production yet, the theatre group is presenting this musical extravaganza with its cast and crew of more than 150 local citizens," said Linda Begley, production manager.

"The Music Man" tells the story of travelling salesman Harold Hill who comes to River City, Iowa, to pull the old "boy's band" fraud, featuring his new "think" method of playing an instrument (don't worry about reading notes; just thinking of the tune is all that's necessary). As the story goes, the only person who can expose the scheme is local librarian and piano teacher, Marion Paroo. To keep Marion from blowing the whistle, Harold tries to romance her.

Featured in the roles of Harold and Marion are two newcomers to the community theatre — Pete Lancaster and Ren Leys. Lancaster, originally from Somerset, attended Murray State University and graduated with degrees in English and speech. He now works as an admissions counselor at he university's school relations office. Lancaster's stage credits include roles in "The Star Spangled Girl" and "The Odd Couple." When asked about the production, Lancaster said, "I think that people in Murray will be surprised at the amount of talent in the cast. In fact, I'd go so far as to say that anyone who can't be turned on by this show, doesn't have a switch!"

Parallels can also be drawn between Ren Leys and her stage character, Marion Paroo. Like Marion, Ren works in a library, the Calloway County Public Library in an outreach program. She came to Murray with her husband Dale in 1977 from Madison, Wisc., where she graduated from the University of Wisconsin as an art education major. Her stage credits include roles in "The Pajama Game" and "Plaza Suite." It is understood Mrs. Leys had no vocal training before this production.

Performances of "The Music Man" are set Nov. 9 and 10 and Nov. 17 and 18. All performances begin at 8 p.m. Ticket prices are $2.50 for adults, $2 for students and $1.50 for children under twelve and senior citizens. Special rates may be obtained for groups of 20 or more, by calling 799-1752 by noon of the day of the performance to be attended.

REHEARSING — Pete Lancaster and Ren Leys are pictured rehearsing their roles as leading man and lady in "The Music Man" which opens Thursday at A. Carman Pavilion. The Murray-Calloway County Community Theatre production runs Thursday and Friday and next Friday and Saturday, Nov. 17 and 18.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Total prevention impossible

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — There is so much written about persons having heart attacks because they are overweight, smoke or have high blood pressure and drink alcohol. But I never see anything about a person who does not have all of these above problems, like me.

I am 78 years old, 5-foot-6, weigh 126 pounds and never had high blood pressure in my life.

I was getting out of the shower on a Sunday morning when suddenly I had severe chest pains. My wife called the ambulance and they came in five minutes. They gave me oxygen which helped to relieve the pain.

I was rushed to the hospital and was in the coronary care unit for four days and in the hospital for two weeks. I haven't had any pain since. During the pain, I had cold sweats. When they X-rayed me in the hospital, there was water in my lungs.

I am getting my strength back, eat and sleep good and get lots of rest. I have always been under the impression that I would never have a heart attack because of not having high blood pressure or the other problems that you often mention in your column.

DEAR READER — There is no formula which guarantees anyone that he will never have a heart attack. You are absolutely right, there are people who are not overweight, don't smoke and don't have high blood pressure who do have heart attacks.

But, I would like to point out that, even in your case, you didn't have one until you were 78. Moreover, you survived it.

We recognize that we can't totally prevent people from having heart attacks. But we hope that by following a prudent course, such as you have, that rather than having a serious heart attack in your latter 40s, 50s or even early 60s, that one might live to 78 before having any serious problems.

By having a good lifestyle and keeping your blood pressure down, you decrease your chances of having a

How To Store Chestnuts

Since chestnuts have a low oil and high carbohydrate content, don't store them like you would other nuts. Refrigerate them at 35 to 40 degrees F under moist conditions shortly after harvesting and you'll prevent them from getting dry and hard.

Chestnuts may be placed in plastic bags with damp or nearly dry peat moss and then refrigerated. They have a high water content and are perishable at room temperature. But if refrigerated in loosely covered containers or in ventilated plastic bags, they will keep for several months.

Roasting also will loosen the skins of chestnuts. Slash through the shells on the flat side of the nuts. Place cut sides up on a baking sheet. Roast in a 400 degrees F oven until tender for about 20 minutes. Insert a fork through the cut in the shell to test tenderness. Remove shells and skins while nuts are still warm.

Chestnuts not only add a delightful flavor, they have fewer calories than other nuts. Use them as a snack or add them to different recipes.

Here's a traditional way to use chestnuts:

Chestnut Stuffing

1½ pounds chestnuts, 1 cup butter or margarine, 1½ cups chopped celery, 1 cup chopped onions, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon thyme leaves, 1 teaspoon marjoram, ½ teaspoon seasoned pepper, 8 cups fresh bread crumbs.

With the tip of a sharp knife, make a slot in each chestnut. In a 3-quart sauce pan, cover chestnuts with water and place over high heat. Heat to boiling; cook 1 minute. Remove from heat.

Remove a few chestnuts at a time from the boiling water; shell and skin. Coarsely chop the nuts and set aside.

Cook celery, onions, salt, thyme, marjoram and pepper over medium heat in hot butter or margarine for about 10 minutes or until the vegetables are tender. Remove from heat and stir in chestnuts and bread crumbs; mix well. Makes about enough stuffings (11 cups) for one 14 to 16 pound turkey.

Alter a Lifestyle To Fit the Kids

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I think your advice to ME IN MALIBU was way out of line. Six years ago I met Bill. We fell in love and became roommates. Between us we have a total of eight children ranging from 9 to 19. We've never tried to hide our lifestyle from them. They accept us and we accept them. The two youngest live with us. (One mine, one his). They go to a private Christian school nearby, and the school authorities have never made a fuss over our lifestyle.

We teach our children morals and values and let them know that the ultimate choices are theirs to make.

If my money ever told me to "get lost" for a while so his children wouldn't learn the realities of our relationship, he would never see me again.

When we are ready, we will marry. No pressure, no coercion or ignorant comments from others will hasten our decision.

As Christians, it's our consciences we must live with — not one else's.

I'M WITH YOU IN MALIBU

DEAR I'M: I hear what you're saying, and I respect the candor and sincerity of your views. Perhaps I'm bending over backwards to preserve the time-honored institution of marriage, and to urge parents to set good examples for their children to follow.

Mature people understand that living together isn't always raunchy, and because they have a profound respect for marriage, they don't rush into it hastily. But I fear that very young children may feel that marriage is not really important to a family. And that disturbs me.

DEAR ABBY: Please print my letter so other mothers won't make the same mistake I made. After 19 years, I realize the error of naming our son "Junior," after his father. When he was a baby, it was no problem. We called him Billy and his father was Bill.

When he got older he decided Billy was too babyish, so he asked us to call him Bill, which wasn't too bad — we called one Big Bill and the other one Little Bill. That worked out fine until Little Bill soon got bigger than Big Bill.

Now it's worse. It's Young Bill and Old Bill and you can imagine how thrilled father is to be Old Bill at 44!

Not only that, but their voices are identical, and they are constantly being mistaken for one another on the telephone. And their mail gets mixed up, too, when there is no "Sr." or "Jr."

It's a pain in the neck. I should have named him Lawrence, like I wanted to. I've always loved that name. Phooey on these Juniors!

TOO LATE NOW

DEAR TOO: Thanks. New mothers, take note.

Fay Wall Sledd A Tribute To — 46 Years At MSU

By Melie and L.J. Horton

Mrs. T. (Fay Wall) Sledd, devoted wife and mother, capable secretary and office assistant, and a member of a prominent family in Calloway County, served Murray State faithfully and expertly for almost half a century — 46 years, from May, 1927, to June 30, 1973. A portion of this was part-time service.

Her death Sunday, November 5, caused her friends of yesteryear to reflect upon how very much she contributed to the University in quiet, cheerful and loyal service through the years.

Born August 27, 1902 in Calloway County, Fay was the daughter of Dr. John T. and Lula Belle Wilson Wall. She was graduated from Murray High School, and for a time, she and her sister Mrs. B. Melugin operated a dress shop in Murray.

Her first employment on the Murray State campus was as secretary to Dr. J. W. Carr, beginning in May, 1927. Dr. Carr's reliance upon the work of his secretary was known to everyone, and Fay became one of the secretarial mainstays on the staff. She was later secretary to Dr. W. R. Bourne, head of the Education Department and governor of Rotary.

The college Business Office was her next assignment, and here she served as "the right hand" of Business Managers R. E. Broach and Preston W. Orday. At the time of her retirement on June 30, 1973, she was assistant director of personnel at Murray State University.

Those who were president while Fay was a member of the staff were Dr. Carr, Dr. Wells, Dr. Richmond, Dr. Woods and Dr. Sparks. The period included the Great Depression, World War II, Naval Flight Preparatory School, enrollment decline, post-war boom, and massive building programs. Paper work was massive and unending, but she handled the tasks with courtesy, cheerfulness and precision.

Fay's "bosses," associates, and faculty members relied on her to help solve the problems of budgets, receipts, expenditures, salaries, maintenance and equipment. Writers for the College News quickly learned to "check their factual stories" with Mrs. Sledd. She knew the history of the administration of Murray State from its "Teacher College" stage to its University status.

On November 29, 1929, Fay Wall and T. Sledd (W. T. Sledd Jr.) were married. Their son, Dr. William T. Sledd III, is professor of mathematics at Michigan State University. Dr. and Mrs. Sledd (the former Margery Clark) have two children, Luanne, 18, and Jane, 13. Dr. Sledd has the M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Kentucky and the B.S. from Murray State. Their home is at 1608 Linden Street, East Lansing, Mich.

Fay and her husband "T" were a true team — at home, on the campus, and in the city. "T" was a star in football and baseball for Murray State, playing on the first teams the "Normal School" ever had. From 1952 to 1969, he was bookstore manager for the university. In sports, "T" is "Mr. Booster" at Murray State.

Fay and "T" and their families have always been loyal to the college and to their town, whatever the occasion. Mrs. Sledd was a member of the First United Methodist Church where she was active in the Mattie Belle Hayes Circle. She was also a member of the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Dean Briggs once wrote: "Do your work. Put your heart into it and the sky will be clear." He must have been thinking of people like Fay — Mrs. William T. Sledd. She put her heart into her work and made the sky clearer for Murray State and her people.

HEARTLINE

Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write Heartline, 114 East Dayton Street, West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. You will receive a prompt reply, but you must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: I am a veteran of World War II. I am presently receiving a disability benefit from the Veterans Administration. My wife recently had a stroke, and now needs constant nursing care. Is there any way the Veterans Administration will assist me in this expense? — D.M.

There is the possibility that you could be eligible for an additional allowance for your wife if her condition calls for it. To be eligible, you must have a service-connected disability rating of at least 50 percent. Veterans drawing any other benefit from the VA other than service-connected disability would not be eligible for this aid for a disabled wife.

HEARTLINE: I am really having a problem with my prescription drugs. The pharmacist puts those child-proof caps on pills, not realizing that they can be "people-proof" as well. Because of arthritis in my hands and fingers, I find it difficult, and at times impossible to get the cap off. Even had to smash one bottle with a hammer. Is there any way I can get the old-fashioned caps on my pills? — P.O.

The Poison Prevention Packaging Act of 1970 has made this type of cap to be the kind currently required by law. It has been responsible for preventing many children from consuming medicines that are harmful to them. However, you should request that your pharmacist use the other type of lid. You may be required to sign a release form so that this may be done.

HEARTLINE: I have heard the term "unearned income" used. How does this type of income affect my Social Security benefits?

Unearned income has no effect at all on your Social Security benefits. It does not matter how much you have, and it will in no way lower your benefits. You do not have to pay Social Security taxes on this amount, but in many cases (depending on the amount) you do have to pay federal income taxes on it. Some examples of unearned income are: interest from a savings account, stock dividends, rental income, lottery or prize winnings and the money you receive from any pension or matured insurance policies.

HEARTLINE: I am 65 and I became married for the first time last month. A week after the marriage, I applied for wife's benefits and was told that there was a nine-month waiting period. A friend told me that this waiting period was found unconstitutional by the Supreme Court. What are the real facts? — F.L.

Inside Report

Hostility Toward Blumenthal

WASHINGTON — The rancid hostility of the White House staff toward Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal was signaled anew a few days before President Carter delivered his anti-inflation speech.

Blumenthal and other cabinet members were summoned to the White House to read and discuss the final draft of the speech. Before the meeting was over, Blumenthal had to leave to catch a plane. He popped his copy of the Carter speech into his briefcase and left the White House.

When the meeting ended, the president carefully collected all copies of his speech — except, of course, Blumenthal's, which was in his airborne briefcase.

Presidential aides hugged themselves, scarcely able to contain their glee. Blumenthal had the only unsecured copy of the speech, but he didn't know it. Therefore, if he leaked its contents (a charge repeatedly made against him by White House staffers), Blumenthal's fingerprints would be unmistakable. That might be the lever to pry him out of office.

In fact, there was no leak. But the bizarre incident reflects the attitude of senior presidential aides toward the secretary of the treasury, exacerbated by corrosive squabbling during the drafting of the anti-inflation program.

There is no sign that Blumenthal intends to resign or that the president wants him to resign. Nevertheless, White House aides do not disguise their belief that Blumenthal's abrasive style has curtailed his usefulness and that a new man at the treasury would be beneficial for all concerned.

To underscore that view, they now make a point of dealing with assistant and under secretaries at the treasury, a calculated insult to Blumenthal.

SEIGNIOUS SWITCH

Within two months of accepting membership in the coalition for Peace Through Strength, retired Army Lt. Gen. George Seignious Jr. resigned with a blast that the Coalition's leaders have endorsed "distorted and untrue statements" about the pending strategic arms limitation agreement (SALT).

Three days after his angry Oct. 17 letter to John M. Fisher, president of the anti-SALT American Security Council and prime mover in the Coalition for Peace, Seignious was named to head the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency (ACDA), replacing Paul Warnke. That raises this suspicion: Seignious' resignation from the Coalition for Peace was a condition of his appointment to head ACDA.

The Coalition combines a dozen or more national organizations all of which oppose the SALT II agreement now being hammered into final form by the U.S. and the Soviet Union. Seignious, who will soon resign as president of The Citadel, famed military college in Charleston, S.C., had only joined the Coalition two months ago and agreed to serve on its national strategy committee.

In his letter of resignation to Fisher, Seignious attacked the Coalition's anti-SALT campaign as "distorted and untrue," filled with "excesses" and unacceptable to him.

A footnote: The substitution of Seignious for Warnke, long regarded as the SALT villain by defense-oriented congressmen and military specialists,

Letter To The Editor

More On Swann Home

Dear Editor:

On taking a drive this evening I determined that I would pass by the old Swann home which all the furor is about these days because it is most likely soon to be demolished.

This old place clearly ought to be removed. I don't know exactly who should accomplish the task, whether it should be the Sheriff's office or the local firemen or the firm which has recently purchased the grounds on which it stands — the thing should be demolished by someone, and that is for sure. It is a blight on the community. The columns, for instance, are old. I've calculated that the entire front porch is just as old as the columns, and that the interior of the home is old too. No doubt, if you took care to analyze the place in some detail, which I did not this evening on my drive, you would find that the whole place is old.

It has solid walls and ceilings, is made of solid brick, and I would surmise that you would have a difficult time finding one single item in it made of the ticky-tacky which we have all clearly come to prefer in our modern time. The laughable craftsmanship which has gone into items such as a mere staircase or bookshelf is most certainly lopsided and disgusting to any person of our current gent and might marginally help President Carter "sell" SALT to the Senate next year, if a final agreement is produced. But it fell far short of its broader purpose: disarming headline critics.

LABOR COUNTERATTACK

Although final touches are still being applied, the AFL-CIO's potent executive council on Oct. 31 will criticize President Carter's anti-inflation program, including its novel tax-rebate "insurance" for workers in case inflation tops 7 percent next year.

One argument to be used against the tax-rebate insurance is that it would operate as a catch-up against rising inflation, whereas what unionized workers want are wage increases that anticipate higher future levels of inflation. The insurance against inflation rates over 7 percent — which is the limit on wage increases — would be paid at the end of the year.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, and his top aides are also troubled that Congress might never approve such a scheme — and by what one labor insider called its "exorbitant" cost: if inflation moves into really high levels of 10 to 15 percent. The anti-inflation plan is designed to hold wage increases to the 7 percent level, by voluntary restraint.

In place of Mr. Carter's new voluntary plan, AFL-CIO economists want mandatory wage-price controls, plus a complete incomes policy covering interest rates, profits, dividends and rents.

Fay Wall Sledd A Tribute To — 46 Years At MSU

By Melio and L.J. Horton

Mrs. T. (Fay Wall) Sledd, devoted wife and mother, capable secretary and office assistant, and a member of a prominent family in Calloway County, served Murray State faithfully and expertly for almost half a century — 46 years, from May, 1927, to June 30, 1973. A portion of this was part-time service.

Her death Sunday, November 5, caused her friends of yesteryear to reflect upon how very much she contributed to the University in quiet, cheerful and loyal service through the years.

Born August 27, 1902 in Calloway County, Fay was the daughter of Dr. John T. and Lula Belle Wilson Wall. She was graduated from Murray High School, and for a time, she and her sister Mrs. B. Melugin operated a dress shop in Murray.

Her first employment on the Murray State campus was as secretary to Dr. J. W. Carr, beginning in May, 1927. Dr. Carr's reliance upon the work of his secretary was known to everyone, and Fay became one of the secretarial mainstays on the staff. She was later secretary to Dr. W. R. Bourne, head of the Education Department and governor of Rotary.

The college Business Office was her next assignment, and here she served as "the right hand" of Business Managers R. E. Broach and Preston W. Ordway. At the time of her retirement on June 30, 1973, she was assistant director of personnel at Murray State University.

Those who were president while Fay was a member of the staff were Dr. Carr, Dr. Wells, Dr. Richmond, Dr. Woods and Dr. Sparks. The period included the Great Depression, World War II, Naval Flight Preparatory — School, enrollment decline, post-war boom, and massive building programs. Paper work was massive and unending, but she handled the tasks with courtesy, cheerfulness and precision.

Fay's "bosses," associates, and faculty members relied on her to help solve the problems of budgets, receipts, expenditures, salaries, maintenance and equipment. Writers for the College News quickly learned to "check their factual stories" with Mrs. Sledd. She knew the history of the administration of Murray State from its "Teacher College" stage to its University status.

On November 29, 1929, Fay Wall and T. Sledd (W. T. Sledd Jr.) were married. Their son, Dr. William T. Sledd III, is professor of mathematics at Michigan State University. Dr. and Mrs. Sledd (the former Margery Clark) have two children, Luanne, 18, and Jane, 13. Dr. Sledd has the M.A. and Ph. D. from the University of Kentucky and the B. S. from Murray State. Their home is at 1608 Linden Street, East Lansing, Mich.

Fay and her husband "T" were a true team — at home, on the campus, and in the city. "T" was a star in football and baseball for Murray State, playing on the first teams the "Normal School" ever had. From 1952 to 1969, he was bookstore manager for the university. In sports, "T" is "Mr. Booster" at Murray State.

Fay and "T" and their families have always been loyal to the college and to their town, whatever the occasion. Mrs. Sledd was a member of the First United Methodist Church where she was active in the Mattie Belle Hayes Circle. She was also a member of the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Dean Briggs once wrote: "Do your work. Put your heart into it and the sky will be clear." He must have been thinking of people like Fay — Mrs. William T. Sledd. She put her heart into her work and made the sky clearer for Murray State and her people.

HEARTLINE

Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write Heartline, 114 East Dayton Street, West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. You will receive a prompt reply, but you must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: I am a veteran of World War II. I am presently receiving a disability benefit from the Veterans Administration. My wife recently had a stroke, and now needs constant nursing care. Is there any way the Veterans Administration will assist me in this expense? — D.M.

There is the possibility that you could be eligible for an additional allowance for your wife if her condition calls for it. To be eligible, you must have a service-connected disability rating of at least 50 percent. Veterans drawing any other benefit from the VA other than service-connected disability would not be eligible for this aid for a disabled wife.

HEARTLINE: I am really having a problem with my prescription drugs. The pharmacist puts those child-proof caps on pills, not realizing that they can be "people-proof" as well. Because of arthritis in my hands and fingers, I find it difficult, and at times impossible to get the cap off. I even had to smash one bottle with a hammer. Is there any way I can get the old-fashioned caps on my pills? — P.O.

The Poison Prevention Packaging Act of 1970 has made this type of cap to be the kind currently required by law. It has been responsible for preventing many children from consuming medicines that are harmful to them. However, you should request that your pharmacist use the other type of lid. You may be required to sign a release form so that this may be done.

HEARTLINE: I have heard the term "unearned income" used. How does this type of income affect my Social Security benefits?

Unearned income has no effect at all on your Social Security benefits. It does not matter how much you have, and it will in no way lower your benefits. You do not have to pay Social Security taxes on this amount, but in many cases (depending on the amount) you do have to pay federal income taxes on it. Some examples of unearned income are: interest from a savings account, stock dividends, rental income, lottery or prize winnings and the money you receive from any pension or matured insurance policies.

HEARTLINE: I am 65 and I became married for the first time last month. A week after the marriage, I applied for wife's benefits and was told that there was a nine-month waiting period. A friend told me that this waiting period was found unconstitutional by the Supreme Court. What are the real facts? — F.L.

Inside Report

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

Hostility Toward Blumenthal

WASHINGTON — The rancid hostility of the White House staff toward Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal was signalled anew a few days before President Carter delivered his anti-inflation speech.

Blumenthal and other cabinet members were summoned to the White House to read and discuss the final draft of the speech. Before the meeting was over, Blumenthal had to leave to catch a plane. He popped his copy of the Carter speech into his briefcase and left the White House.

When the meeting ended, the president carefully collected all copies of his speech — except, of course, Blumenthal's, which was in his airborne briefcase.

Presidential aides hugged themselves, scarcely able to contain their glee. Blumenthal had the only unsecured copy of the speech, but he didn't know it. Therefore, if he leaked its contents (a charge repeatedly made against him by White House staffers), Blumenthal's fingerprints would be unmistakable. That might be the lever to pry him out of office.

In fact, there was no leak. But the bizarre incident reflects the attitude of senior presidential aides toward the secretary of the treasury, exacerbated by corrosive squabbling during the drafting of the anti-inflation program.

There is no sign that Blumenthal intends to resign or that the president wants him to resign. Nevertheless, White House aides do not disguise their belief that Blumenthal's abrasive style has curtailed his usefulness and that a new man at the treasury would be beneficial for all concerned.

To underscore that view, they now make a point of dealing with assistant and under secretaries at the treasury, a calculated insult to Blumenthal.

SEIGNIOUS SWITCH

Within two months of accepting

membership in the coalition for Peace Through Strength, retired Army Lt. Gen. George Seignious Jr. resigned with a blast that the Coalition's leaders have endorsed "distorted and untrue statements" about the pending strategic arms limitation agreement (SALT).

Three days after his angry Oct. 17 letter to John M. Fisher, president of the anti-SALT American Security Council and prime mover in the Coalition for Peace, Seignious was named to head the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency (ACDA), replacing Paul Warnke. That raises this suspicion: Seignious' resignation from the Coalition for Peace was a condition of his appointment to head ACDA.

The Coalition combines a dozen or more national organizations all of which oppose the SALT II agreement now being hammered into final form by the U.S. and the Soviet Union. Seignious, who will soon resign as president of The Citadel, famed military college in Charleston, S.C., had only joined the Coalition two months ago and agreed to serve on its national strategy committee.

In his letter of resignation to Fisher, Seignious attacked the Coalition's anti-SALT campaign as "distorted and untrue," filled with "excesses" and unacceptable to him.

A footnote: The substitution of Seignious for Warnke, long regarded as the SALT villain by defense-oriented congressmen and military specialists,

Fay Wall Sledd A Tribute To — 46 Years At MSU

By Melie and L.J. Horton

Mrs. T. (Fay Wall) Sledd, devoted wife and mother, capable secretary and office assistant, and a member of a prominent family in Calloway County, served Murray State faithfully and expertly for almost half a century — 46 years, from May, 1927, to June 30, 1973. A portion of this was part-time service.

Her death Sunday, November 5, caused her friends of yesteryear to reflect upon how very much she contributed to the University in quiet, cheerful and loyal service through the years.

Born August 27, 1902 in Calloway County, Fay was the daughter of Dr. John T. and Lula Belle Wilson Wall. She was graduated from Murray High School, and for a time, she and her sister Mrs. B. Melugin operated a dress shop in Murray.

Her first employment on the Murray State campus was as secretary to Dr. J. W. Carr, beginning in May, 1927. Dr. Carr's reliance upon the work of his secretary was known to everyone, and Fay became one of the secretarial mainstays on the staff. She was later secretary to Dr. W. R. Bourne, head of the Education Department and governor of Rotary.

The college Business Office was her next assignment, and here she served as "the right hand" of Business Managers R. E. Broach and Preston W. Ordway. At the time of her retirement on June 30, 1973, she was assistant director of personnel at Murray State University.

Those who were president while Fay was a member of the staff were Dr. Carr, Dr. Wells, Dr. Richmond, Dr. Woods and Dr. Sparks. The period included the Great Depression, World War II, Naval Flight Preparatory School, enrollment decline, post-war boom, and massive building programs. Paper work was massive and unending, but she handled the tasks with courtesy, cheerfulness and precision.

Fay's "bosses," associates, and faculty members relied on her to help solve the problems of budgets, receipts, expenditures, salaries, maintenance and equipment. Writers for the College News quickly learned to "check their factual stories" with Mrs. Sledd. She knew the history of the administration of Murray State from its "Teacher College" stage to its University status.

On November 29, 1929, Fay Wall and T. Sledd (W. T. Sledd Jr.) were married. Their son, Dr. William T. Sledd III, is professor of mathematics at Michigan State University. Dr. and Mrs. Sledd (the former Margery Clark) have two children, Luanne, 18, and Jane, 13. Dr. Sledd has the M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Kentucky, and the B.S. from Murray State. Their home is at 1608 Linden Street, East Lansing, Mich.

Fay and her husband "T" were a true team — at home, on the campus, and in the city. "T" was a star in football and baseball for Murray State, playing on the first teams the "Normal School" ever had. From 1952 to 1969, he was bookstore manager for the university. In sports, "T" is "Mr. Booster" at Murray State.

Fay and "T" and their families have always been loyal to the college and to their town, whatever the occasion. Mrs. Sledd was a member of the First United Methodist Church where she was active in the Mattie Belle Hayes Circle. She was also a member of the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Dean Briggs once wrote: "Do your work. Put your heart into it and the sky will be clear." He must have been thinking of people like Fay — Mrs. William T. Sledd. She put her heart into her work and made the sky clearer for Murray State and her people.

HEARTLINE

Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write Heartline, 114 East Dayton Street, West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. You will receive a prompt reply, but you must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: I am a veteran of World War II. I am presently receiving a disability benefit from the Veterans Administration. My wife recently had a stroke, and now needs constant nursing care. Is there any way the Veterans Administration will assist me in this expense? — D.M.

There is the possibility that you could be eligible for an additional allowance for your wife if her condition calls for it. To be eligible, you must have a service-connected disability rating of at least 50 percent. Veterans drawing any other benefit from the VA other than service-connected disability would not be eligible for this aid for a disabled wife.

HEARTLINE: I am really having a problem with my prescription drugs. The pharmacist puts those child-proof caps on pills, not realizing that they can be "people-proof" as well. Because of arthritis in my hands and fingers, I find it difficult, and at times impossible to get the cap off. I even had to smash one bottle with a hammer. Is there any way I can get the old-fashioned caps on my pills? — P.O.

The Poison Prevention Packaging Act of 1970 has made this type of cap to be the kind currently required by law. It has been responsible for preventing many children from consuming medicines that are harmful to them. However, you should request that your pharmacist use the other type of lid. You may be required to sign a release form so that this may be done.

HEARTLINE: I have heard the term "unearned income" used. How does this type of income affect my Social Security benefits?

Unearned income has no effect at all on your Social Security benefits. It does not matter how much you have, and it will in no way lower your benefits. You do not have to pay Social Security taxes on this amount, but in many cases (depending on the amount) you do have to pay federal income taxes on it. Some examples of unearned income are: interest from a savings account, stock dividends, rental income, lottery or prize winnings and the money you receive from any pension or matured insurance policies.

HEARTLINE: I am 65 and I became married for the first time last month. A week after the marriage, I applied for wife's benefits and was told that there was a nine-month waiting period. A friend told me that this waiting period was found unconstitutional by the Supreme Court. What are the real facts? — F.L.

Inside Report

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

Hostility Toward Blumenthal

WASHINGTON — The rancid hostility of the White House staff toward Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal was signalled anew a few days before President Carter delivered his anti-inflation speech.

Blumenthal and other cabinet members were summoned to the White House to read and discuss the final draft of the speech. Before the meeting was over, Blumenthal had to leave to catch a plane. He popped his copy of the Carter speech into his briefcase and left the White House.

When the meeting ended, the president carefully collected all copies of his speech — except, of course, Blumenthal's, which was in his airborne briefcase.

Presidential aides hugged themselves, scarcely able to contain their glee. Blumenthal had the only unsecured copy of the speech, but he didn't know it. Therefore, if he leaked its contents (a charge repeatedly made against him by White House staffers), Blumenthal's fingerprints would be unmistakable. That might be the lever to pry him out of office.

In fact, there was no leak. But the bizarre incident reflects the attitude of senior presidential aides toward the secretary of the treasury, exacerbated by corrosive squabbling during the drafting of the anti-inflation program. There is no sign that Blumenthal intends to resign or that the president wants him to resign. Nevertheless, White House aides do not disguise their belief that Blumenthal's abrasive style has curtailed his usefulness and that a new man at the treasury would be beneficial for all concerned.

To underscore that view, they now make a point of dealing with assistant and under secretaries at the treasury, a calculated insult to Blumenthal.

SEIGNIOUS SWITCH

Within two months of accepting

membership in the coalition for Peace Through Strength, retired Army Lt. Gen. George Seignious Jr. resigned with a blast that the Coalition's leaders have endorsed "distorted and untrue statements" about the pending strategic arms limitation agreement (SALT).

Three days after his angry Oct. 17 letter to John M. Fisher, president of the anti-SALT American Security Council and prime mover in the Coalition for Peace, Seignious was named to head the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency (ACDA), replacing Paul Warnke. That raises this suspicion: Seignious' resignation from the Coalition for Peace was a condition of his appointment to head ACDA.

The Coalition combines a dozen or more national organizations all of which oppose the SALT II agreement now being hammered into final form by the U.S. and the Soviet Union. Seignious, who will soon resign as president of The Citadel, famed military college in Charleston, S.C., had only joined the Coalition two months ago and agreed to serve on its national strategy committee.

In his letter of resignation to Fisher, Seignious attacked the Coalition's anti-SALT campaign as "distorted and untrue," filled with "excesses" and unacceptable to him.

A footnote: The substitution of Seignious for Warnke, long regarded as the SALT villain by defense-oriented congressmen and military specialists, might marginally help President Carter "sell" SALT to the Senate next year, if a final agreement is produced. But it fell far short of its broader purpose: disarming headline critics.

LABOR COUNTERATTACK

Although final touches are still being applied, the AFL-CIO's potent executive council on Oct. 31 will criticize President Carter's anti-inflation program, including its novel tax-rebate "insurance" for workers in case inflation tops 7 percent next year.

One argument to be used against the tax-rebate insurance is that it would operate as a catch-up against rising inflation, whereas what unionized workers want are wage increases that anticipate higher future levels of inflation. The insurance against inflation rates over 7 percent — which is the limit on wage increases — would be paid at the end of the year.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, and his top aides are also troubled that Congress might never approve such a scheme — and by what one labor insider called its "exorbitant" cost if inflation moves into really high levels of 10 to 15 percent. The anti-inflation plan is designed to hold wage increases to the 7 percent level, by voluntary restraint.

In place of Mr. Carter's new voluntary plan, AFL-CIO economists want mandatory wage-price controls, plus a complete incomes policy covering interest rates, profits, dividends and rents.

Letter To The Editor

More On Swann Home

Dear Editor:

On taking a drive this evening I determined that I would pass by the old Swann home which all the furor is about these days because it is most likely soon to be demolished.

This old place clearly ought to be removed. I don't know exactly who should accomplish the task, whether it should be the Sheriff's office or the local firemen or the firm which has recently purchased the grounds on which it stands — the thing should be demolished by someone, and that is for sure. It is a blight on the community. The columns, for instance, are old. I've calculated that the entire front porch is just as old as the columns, and that the interior of the home is old too. No doubt, if you took care to analyze the place in some detail, which I did not this evening on my drive, you would find that the whole place is old.

It has solid walls and ceilings, is made of solid brick, and I would surmise that you would have a difficult time finding one single item in it made of the ticky-tacky which we have all clearly come to prefer in our modern time. The laughable craftsmanship which has gone into items such as a mere staircase or bookshelf is most certainly loathsome and disgusting to any person of our current great and progressive age. Demolish the place and use it for firewood, is what I say.

Also, a word about the location. I know as a private citizen I have very little say in what to do about someone's private property, but I should most certainly like to go on record as preferring that the house be replaced by some form of parking lot — nothing extravagant, just a large basic asphalt slab, something someone could park on if need be. In the past week I have heard a responsible citizen of this city declare that 2,000,000 square yards of asphalt was quite enough for one community. Well, I would most certainly classify that person as a lout and he better get his head on straight but quick! If a town is going to keep growing as Murray is growing, we may have to asphalt the whole thing.

And what's wrong with asphalt anyway? One guy told me it raises the temperature of the air by 15 degrees. So what? Hasn't he ever heard of a durned air-conditioner once in his life? And all these people talking about preserving the past and keeping up the "quality of life" in a community. What good is all that stuff if you got nowhere to park? Ask them that if they're so smart.

Truly,

Phil Deaver

Local Issues On Election Ballots Draw Mixed Bag Of Results

Local issues on election ballots across Kentucky drew a mixed bag of results Tuesday. Voters in some counties approved added taxes while similar proposals in other areas were defeated.

Perhaps the most hotly contested issue was in the state's largest county — Jefferson — where voters rejected a referendum on changing the makeup of fiscal court. The measure was losing by a 4 to 1 margin in early returns. It would have eliminated the court's commissioners in favor of magistrates.

Northern Kentucky voters overwhelmingly favored continuing a 4 percent payroll and profits tax to relieve their financially troubled transit authority.

The last unofficial count showed 19,194 votes in favor to 8,385 against in Kenton County, while Campbell countians voted 12,964 yes and 7,679 no.

The tax was levied by the county fiscal courts last June. Transit authority officials had warned that bus service, principally for commuters to the Cincinnati area, would cease if the tax failed.

In western Kentucky's Simpson County, the vote was 1,038 to 962 in favor of extending a Franklin city library tax to the county. The 5 percent property tax will go to the Goodnight Memorial Library District.

A proposed emergency ambulance district for continued operation of the Barren and Metcalfe county ambulance service was defeated in Barren County 2,121 to 1,661 while Metcalfe countians voted in favor 1,857 to 408. The proposed ambulance district will have the authority to impose a property tax not exceeding .6 percent per $100 assessed property value.

Despite the losing vote in Barren County, officials said ambulance service there will continue, though at a reduced level and no longer in conjunction with Metcalfe County.

At Loyall in eastern Kentucky's Harlan County, the vote was 146 to 58 in favor of a $100,000 bond issue for the purchase of new firefighting equipment.

Union countians defeated by a 3-1 margin a proposed .5 percent payroll and profits tax to continue a $3 million school building program. The school board approved the tax last June. The present tax expires in 1980 and school officials said the renewal was necessary to continue construction.

A proposed 1 percent property tax to bail out an ailing ambulance service in Pulaski County was defeated 4,723-1,621. Pulaski Fiscal Court and the Somerset City Council have said they will not fund the ambulance service after June 30 next year. The tax was proposed to generate up to $46,000 annually to offset the loss of $39,000 allocated yearly by the two governing bodies.

In central Kentucky's Cumberland County, appointed Democrat Harold Barnes was elected county judge-executive over Republican challenger David Lewis Williams 1,838 to 1,471. The election was for a successor to the late Judge-Executive Lyle Webb, a Republican, who died Feb. 14.

Linda Boatwright was unopposed to fill the unexpired term of her late husband, state Rep. J.W. Boatwright, who died Aug. 23. Mrs. Boatwright will represent the 4th House Legislative District, which includes Livingston County and part of McCracken County outside Paducah.

POLITICAL POW-WOW — First District Congressman Carroll Hubbard listens intently as Mancel J. Vinson, right, director of alumni affairs at Murray State University, makes a point. Hubbard revealed during MSU's homecoming that he plans to announce his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for governor Dec. 11, while Vinson is expected to seek the Democratic nomination for commissioner of agriculture in next May's primary. Hubbard spoke on the MSU campus Monday night on the eve of the Tuesday general election.

DRAKE CUTINI, a third-year-law student at the University of Kentucky, Lexington, is editor-in-chief of the UK Law Journal, the 10th oldest legal journal in the United States. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cutini of St. Clair Shores, Mich., he is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Jones of Murray. His wife, the former Carol Chester, also is a native of Marshall County. Cutini will work with Judge Pierce Lively of the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals following his graduation in May.

To The End And Back

Four-Year Starter Reagan Is Linebacking Again

By TONY WILSON
Sports Editor

David Reagan was a linebacker for three seasons with the Murray State football team, so he was surprised to be moved to defensive end during spring practice over six months ago.

His surprise was short-lived, however. After missing the Racers' first two games of this season with a sprained arch, Reagan was in on ten or so plays during a 24-14 loss to Tennessee Tech.

Then came the defensive disaster against Morehead the following week, a game in which the Racers allowed 49 points to the Eagles.

That game marked the end of Reagan's stint at defensive end; it was back to linebacker. "Moving to end was a big change to me," said Reagan. "It limited my mobility. Last spring they moved me there, so I just accepted it as helping the team. I think we were weak at those spots at the time."

Helping the team is something the 6-

1, 214-pound Reagan has done since accepting a scholarship to Murray four years ago. Stationed at the Sombach Air Force Base, he played a year of service football and hoped to play on the college level.

"I wrote a lot of letters, but I never dreamed I'd end up playing at Murray State," Reagan says. But he accepted the offer and broke into the starting lineup after the second game of the season.

He totaled 54 tackles, 32 assists and two fumble recoveries his initial year with the Racers, but an injury slowed him the following season. "I messed up my ankle, broke it, but it wasn't until this year that I knew what was really wrong with it," said Reagan. "The doctor told me that my injury this year was sort of a delayed one from the injury my sophomore year."

Last season he responded with 36 tackles, 11 assists and an interception, and his eagerness in spring practice this year was enough for his teammates to vote him the most improved player on the squad.

Morehead's shelling of the defense prompted the coaching staff to switch the defensive alignment from a "50" to a wide-tackle-six defense.

It responded by limiting UT-Martin and Middle Tennessee to seven points each and 21 to East Tennessee, enabling coach Mike Gottfried and his staff to enjoy a three-game win streak.

The new defense really gives me, as a linebacker, a lot more responsibility," Reagan said. "It's complicated to explain, but basically, I now have to read the backs instead of the linemen."

How has the new coaching staff changed the team?

"I think the little areas is mainly where new coaches make a difference," says Reagan. It all comes down to a coach's philosophy — where he places stress in certain areas. I think it's been a heck of a switch."

Two narrow losses in the past two weeks — 24-21 to Eastern Kentucky, 23-17 to Austin Peay — that have dropped Murray's record to 4-5 have failed to dampen the team's enthusiasm, Reagan says. "This is going to be an good team," Reagan says. "It makes me wish I was a freshman again. The excitement generated by the coaches is tremendous."

Another change Reagan cites is the coaches' continued emphasis on team morale. "They've been at major colleges, and they keep drumming it into our heads that we're not small time just because we're not in the same division with the traditional football powers," Reagan says.

Even so, doesn't a player yearn to know if he could have made on the level of say, Nebraska or Ohio State? "Oh, I guess that goes through everyone's mind; asking themselves if they were really good enough to play football on that level," says Reagan. "But playing here has been an experience that I've enjoyed."

Second OVC Coach To Step Down

Wayne Chapman Resigns At Morehead

By the Associated Press
MOREHEAD, Ky. — Wayne Chapman, head football coach at Morehead State University for three years, has announced his resignation effective at the end of the season.

With only a Nov. 18 game against Eastern Kentucky remaining on its schedule, Morehead is 2-5-1 for the year.

Chapman's teams overall have compiled a 7-19-3 record.

Chapman said his greatest wish "has been to see the Eagles develop a winning tradition. I can state that everyone associated with the program has worked diligently toward this goal."

But, he continued, "the unstinting dedication, determination and effort on the part of the players and coaches has not brought this goal to realization."

Chapman said that after much inner struggle, "I have concluded that I should resign. I have given everything I had to give for three years and my only regret is that I haven't been able to obtain the goals I set for the Eagles' program when I became head coach."

Calling Chapman's decision a difficult one, Morehead President Dr. Morris Norfleet said "we fully understand his reasons for leaving the university. We are most appreciative of his dedicated service and offer our best wishes for the future."

Chapman was the second OVC football coach to step down on Tuesday. Ben Hurt of Middle Tennessee, whose club has suffered through a 1-7-1 season so far, also resigned. Morehead Athletic Director G.E. Moran said that, "I can't speak for Wayne, but I think he may have set some goals for himself he felt he didn't meet."

6-4 Cowboys Still Have Playoff Chance

By the Associated Press
The biggest problem with the Dallas Cowboys is:

(a) they're trying too hard,
(b) they're not trying hard enough,

(c) both of the above.
The answer, of course, is (d) neither of the above.

There's nothing wrong with the Dallas Cowboys. They're simply rediscovering what Don Shula, Chuck Noll, Joe Namath, Isaac Newton and various and sundry other celebrities (Tom Landry among them) had already discovered...what goes up must come down.

"Our problem is we forget that we're ex-world champions," says Preston Pearson. "We were the 1977 world champions. That's over now. We have to remember that."

What the Cowboys should remember is that they were Super Bowl champions not only one season ago but six seasons before that — and in both cases they were unable to maintain that championship pace.

Green Bay, Miami and Pittsburgh, like Dallas, were two-time champions — and the Packers, Dolphins and Steelers also belied after a while, too. "You have to have a goal you are hungry for and are willing to fight for," says Landry. "When you have the goal on both fingers (a pair of Super Bowl rings), motivation is different."

Performances like Dallas' last two, against Minnesota and Miami, aren't something to be proud of — but they're hardly indications that the Cowboys are about to go on the critical list. After all, they're still 6-4, they're only one game behind Washington in the National Conference

Rice Easily Outpoints Guidry For AL MVP Award

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK — Forced to choose between two awesome statistical seasons, the Baseball Writers Association of America chose slugger Jim Rice's numbers and named him the American League's Most Valuable Player over pitcher Ron Guidry.

Rice received 20 of the 28 first place ballots cast and finished with 352 points. Guidry took the other eight first place ballots and totaled 291 points. Larry Hise of the Milwaukee Brewers finished third with 201.

Because of the way they had dominated their individual departments, Rice at bat for the Boston Red Sox and Guidry on the mound for the New York Yankees, there was speculation that the MVP battle would be a tight one.

But the suspense hardly interfered with the routine activities of the two stars. Rice, in Las Vegas for a tribute later this week to former heavyweight champion Joe Louis, spent the afternoon playing golf. When he returned to his hotel, he learned of the MVP vote.

"I just got back from shooting 79. That's more important," he said. "The MVP vote was a month ago. I couldn't change anything. I'm thrilled about it, but I couldn't just sit around and wait to hear."

Guidry, the unanimous winner of the AL Cy Young Award last week, spent the day hunting near his home in Lafayette, La.

"My congratulations go to Jim Rice," he said. "Definitely, his statistics were worthy of the MVP. To finish second in the vote to a player like Jim Rice is not disappointing and by not receiving this award this year gives me something to gun for in 1979."

Guidry's MVP bid was probably hurt by the Cy Young Award. Since 1956 when the BBWAA introduced the Cy Young to honor the best pitcher in each league, only five hurlers have swept both that honor and the MVP. They were Don Newcombe in 1956, Sandy Koufax in 1963, Bob Gibson and Denny McLain in 1968 and Vida Blue in 1971.

After Guidry, the highest pitcher in Tuesday's vote was Milwaukee's Mike Caldwell, who finished 12th, behind last year's MVP, Minnesota batting champion Rod Carew.

In the weeks before Tuesday's announcement, Guidry had bristled at suggestions that his MVP bid would be hurt because he is a pitcher and not an everyday player like Rice.

"How can you call it MVP if you don't include pitchers?" Guidry had said. "We're still athletes. We still do our jobs."

If the MVP award is for hitters only, they ought to call it the Ty Cobb Award or the Rod Carew Award. If they want to leave out pitchers, they ought to put an asterisk next to it and say 'Pitchers: Generally not included."

"It takes 25 guys to win it," he said. "I've got to play my part. I hope I can do what I did last season, but repeating this kind of year will be a little tough."

Hewitt Selected

Murray State golf coach Buddy Hewitt has been selected to serve on the resource consultant staff of the National Golf Foundation.

The staff will work with area consultants in conducting workshops and clinics for teachers and coaches as well as players. Hewitt's primary duty will be involved in helping to increase the number of clinics.

Racer Club To Meet

The Racer Club will hold its regular weekly meeting Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Racer Room of Roy

Milwaukee Thumps Boston; Bulls Lose

By the Associated Press
Throughout their glory years, the Boston Celtics lived by the fast break. Tuesday night, they died by it at the hands of the Milwaukee Bucks.

The young Bucks ran the struggling Celtics ragged in breaking a three-game losing streak with a 125-108 National Basketball Association victory. At a team meeting before the game, the Milwaukee players decided to open up the offense and Boston couldn't keep pace. The Bucks scored 19 points from the free throw line in the fourth quarter as the beleaguered Celtics kept fouling when beaten down the floor.

"This was the best basketball we've played since last year," said Bucks guard Brian Winters. "When you run a lot, you use a lot of people. We had some injuries and so a couple of guys had to go 40 minutes a game instead of 32. We're pretty healthy now and I think we'll run more because of it. This is the way the game is supposed to be played."

Elsewhere in the NBA, Los Angeles edged Chicago 112-111, Washington slaughtered Portland 143-103 and San Diego beat New Orleans 121-115.

Milwaukee got balanced scoring, with Winters and Marques Johnson contributing 19 points each, Kent Benson and Ernie Grunfeld scoring 18 apiece. Benson had 12 rebounds and held Celtic star Dave Cowens to four points and nine rebounds.

Lloyd Walton keyed the offense with 10 assists, the second straight game in which he was in double figures in assists.

"I'm having a ball out there because we're ready to get on the winning track," Walton said of the 5-9 Bucks. "We're going to put on our track shoes...we're going to get these guys running."

The Celtics fell to 2-8; Lakers 112, Bulls 111.

Los Angeles won for the first time on the road and the sixth time in a row overall. Norm Nixon's steal and subsequent layup with 15 seconds to go accounted for the Lakers' margin.

Adrian Dantley had 27 points and Nixon scored 24 in helping the Lakers overcome a sevenpoint Bulls lead in the last quarter. Nixon had seven points in the final 3½ minutes. The loss dropped Chicago's record to 2-11.

Bullets 143, Trail Blazers 103
Washington bolted to a 20-4 lead in the first six minutes and cruised home. The Bullets built a 72-44 halftime lead as the defending NBA champs snapped Portland's five-game victory skein.

Bobby Dandridge scored 24 points and Wes Unseld had 21 and 15 rebounds for Washington.

Clippers 121, Jazz 115

Lloyd Free led San Diego scoring with 29 points, but Coniel Norman, who finished with 21, and Nick Weather- spoon, who added 25, came off the bench to spark the Clippers offense.

Leonard Robinson had 32 points and 17 rebounds in a losing effort while Pete Maravich added 28 points.

'Long Count' Is Over

Boxing Great Gene Tunney Dead At 80

By the Associated Press
GREENWICH, Conn. — For many years after he had retired from boxing, Gene Tunney, who died Tuesday night at the age of 80, had to live down the stigma of his famous "Long Count" match with Jack Dempsey.

But he always was a good counter-puncher when it came to defending himself from criticism.

"I know I was the beneficiary of the long count, but it wasn't my idea," Tunney would say. "I was down, but I wasn't out. I first heard the count at 2, and I could have gotten up any time after that. But I preferred to take the benefit of the full count."

"That was the only round he (Dempsey) won. Everybody forgets that I knocked him down with the first punch of the next round. After the long count, which couldn't have been more than 14 seconds, I had a chance to exhibit my ring generalship."

Tunney got off the canvas to beat Dempsey for the second time in two confrontations and later retired as the undefeated heavyweight champion of the world.

The death of the onetime "Fighting Marine" Tuesday night came more than a half-century after that legendary "Long Count" fight on Sept. 22, 1927.

Tunney's son, former U.S.

Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Cal., said in Los Angeles that his father died at Greenwich Hospital of blood poisoning after suffering for some time from circulatory trouble. The younger Tunney had been appearing on a Los Angeles television program as an election night commentator.

Gene Tunney had seen combat service as a Marine in World War I, thus his nickname as the "Fighting Marine." He won 56 fights, 41 by knockouts, had one draw and lost only once.

A New York native, Tunney began fighting professionally in 1915 and seven years later outpointed "Battling" Levinsky in 12 rounds for the American light, heavyweight championship, a title he lost later in the year on a 15-round decision to Harry Greb. He later beat Greb twice and fought two no-decisions with him.

In 1925 Tunney concentrated on heavyweights and on Sept. 23, 1926, he won boxing's biggest title by outpointing the great Dempsey over 10 rounds in the rain in Philadelphia. It was Dempsey's first title defense in three years.

Then came the notorious "Long Count" battle at Chicago's Soldier Field before 104,943 fans.

In the seventh round, Dempsey cornered Tunney and smashed him to the canvas with a series of blows.

Falcons Ready; Panatta Triumphs

SUWANEE, Ga. (AP) — The Atlanta Falcons will get acquainted with National Football League officials early next season.

Falcon Coach Leeman Bennett said Tuesday he plans to hire officials to attend the team's training camp in hopes that next year's team won't suffer as many penalties as this year's.

On Sunday, Atlanta was penalized 17 times for 125 yards during a 21-10 victory over the San Francisco 49ers.

"I wonder about the consistency of the officiating — how one team can have 17 and the other team can have seven. But I won't deny that every one of the penalties they called was there," Bennett said.

STOCKHOLM — Adriano Panatta and Tom Gullikson each fought off second-set match points and advanced to the second round of the $175,000 Stockholm Open tennis tournament night.

Panatta scrambled to a 3-6, 7-6, 7-5 victory over Dick Stockton, while Gullikson outlasted South African Johan Kriek 6-7, 7-6, 7-5.

HONG KONG — Defending champion Ken Rosewall, seeded fourth, beat Australian countryman Mark Edmondson 6-1, 6-3 in the opening round of the $75,000 Hong Kong tennis tournament.

Meanwhile, top-seeded Jimmy Connors withdrew from the tournament because of an injured ankle.

Two Murray High School products have joined the MSU Lady Racer roster for the 1978-79 season. Tammy Boone (left), a 5-9 sophomore forward and Marlene Farrell, a 5-8 freshman forward, are among 14 players on coach Jean Smith's roster. The Racers will participate in a scrimmage at Memphis State Nov. 11 and host UT-Martin to another Nov. 13 before opening their season Nov. 18 with a 7 p.m. home contest against Vanderbilt.

Alexander Wins Landslide Victory

By BILL RAWLINS
 Associated Press Writer
 NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Lamar Alexander has won a landslide election as the state's second Republican governor in eight years with a 143,000-vote victory over Democrat Jake Butcher, who spent $3.7 million in losing.

Alexander's victory, as Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker easily won his third term in Tuesday's election, obviously surprised even him. At one point, when returns showed him with 57 percent of the vote but before he was sure of election, Alexander said, "That's unbelievable."

But it soon became believable enough. With 99 percent of the returns from the state's 2,316 precincts, Alexander, 37, a Nashville lawyer and Baker protégé, had 665,716 votes to 522,837 for Butcher, a potential 1980 presidential candidate, got 20,000 fewer votes than Alexander, leading Jane Eskind, an untested Nashville Democrat, 645,656 to 464,591.

Alexander's margin over Butcher compared with Gov. Ray Blanton's margin of 121,366 votes over Alexander four years ago. And Baker told his Knoxville victory celebration, "The Republican party is ready now to become the majority force in this state."

Blanton sent a congratulatory telegram to Alexander, who carried two-thirds of the state's 95 counties in a campaign in which he spent about $1.5 million.

"You may be assured of my full cooperation and that of my staff to insure a successful transition," Blanton said. "My office, as well as a state vehicle, will be at your disposal."

Butcher failed to muster votes a lot of places where he expected to do well, including Middle Tennessee where Alexander overwhelmed him in Metropolitan Nashville. But, fatally, his prediction of 95 percent of the Memphis black vote turned sour and he had to settle for 60 percent, or 74,014 votes to 47,593 for Alexander, in the black-dominated 8th Congressional District.

It was the only district which Butcher carried. But Butcher may keep his ear in state government. Alexander, telling cheering supporters that Butcher had called him, said, "It was a good call... He wants to do things for Tennessee and I hope in the near future we will have an opportunity to do things for Tennessee together."

Democrats maintained their 5-3 margin in the state's U.S. House delegation, as all incumbents were re-elected and Democratic state Sen. Bill Boner was elected to replace the late Clifford Allen in the 5th District.

But Republicans gained two state Senate seats and at least five state House seats, although Democrats retain control of the Legislature.

Democrat Keith Bissell of Oak Ridge maintained his party's solid control of the GOP Picks Up Statehouses...

The GOP fared better in the 36 gubernatorial races, where incomplete returns indicated a net Republican gain of seven statehouses. A late GOP winner was Rep. Albert Quile in Minnesota, where the Democratic Farm-Labor Party had a disastrous election night.

But Democrats will retain commanding majorities in both Houses of Congress and in state governments.

Even with Republicans picking up three seats in the Senate, Democrats would have a 59-41 majority, compared with their 62-38 edge in the last Congress.

With three House races undecided, Democrats won 276 and Republicans 156. The House party lineup at the end of the 96th Congress was 285 Democrats and 146 Republicans, with four vacancies.

Mirroring voter discontent with economic conditions were ballot proposals to limit taxes or put a lid on spending in 16 states and were defeated in four.

Either tax or spending limits, some of them not binding, won in Alabama, Arizona, Hawaii, Idaho, Illinois, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, Nevada, North Dakota, South Dakota and Texas and lost in Arkansas, Colorado, Nebraska and Oregon.

Nationwide, voter turnout was generally moderate, with balloting heavier than expected in areas where close election contests or referendum issues excited voter interest.

The results of related questions in Michigan and South Dakota were incomplete.

It appeared Republicans would pick up three seats in the Senate and at least 12 in the House. They fared better in the 36 gubernatorial races, where incomplete returns indicated a net Republican gain of seven statehouses.

But Democrats will retain commanding majorities in both houses of Congress and at the state government level.

Voters in 38 states were asked to decide some 200 issues, ranging from school integration to capital punishment to homosexual rights.

In Massachusetts, voters endorsed by a 3-1 margin a prohibition against assigning children to schools based on race and in Washington state they were approving a proposal to dismantle Seattle's busing program.

In California, they voted 3-to-1 for a measure expanding the list of crimes punishable by death and Oregon voters favored reinstating the death penalty for certain crimes by a 2-1 margin.

In Dade County, Fla., nearly 60 percent voted down a local gay rights provision similar to one they repealed last year.

But in California, 57 percent of the voters were opposing a proposal that would order school boards to fire or refuse to hire teachers who commit or advocate homosexual acts. And in Seattle an effort was failing that would repeal a local ban on housing and job discrimination against homosexuals.

Leaders of both parties were quick to claim victory from Tuesday's results.

President Carter, who had campaigned for Democratic candidates in 19 states, said: "I thought they did very well." He said he had watched the election returns on television Tuesday night "with a great deal of interest."

Six incumbent senators, including Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., the only black member, lost their seats and two others were in tight races.

The governors of five of the nation's most populous states were re-elected.

Among the surprises was the defeat of Gov. Meldrim Thomson Jr. of New Hampshire by Democrat Hugh Gallen, who managed to equal the incumbent's fervent opposition to any new state taxes. Thomson, a conservative Republican, won a third term two years ago with 57.7 percent of the vote.

One of the Republican statehouse gains was in Pennsylvania where Richard L. Thornburgh scored a surprisingly easy victory over Pete Flaherty in the race to succeed Gov. Milton Shapp, a Democrat.

Democratic Govs. Hugh Carey of New York and Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California, and Republican Govs. William Milliken of Michigan, James Rhodes of Ohio and James Thompson of Illinois all won re-election.

Computer problems delayed for several hours the News Election Service tabulation, forcing reliance on slower backup systems and delaying the vote totals sent to newspapers and broadcasters.

Even with Republicans picking up two seats in the Senate, Democrats would have a 60-40 majority. With eight House races undecided, Democrats won 270 and Republicans 157.

In the last Congress, Democrats had a 62-38 edge in the Senate and a 285-146 margin in the House, with four vacancies.

Six senators — four Democrats and two Republicans — lost their seats and two others were locked in tight races.

Incumbent senators who lost were: Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., to Rep. Paul Tsongas.

Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., to Carl Levin, former president of the Detroit City Council.

Floyd Haskell, D-Colo., to Rep. William L. Armstrong.

William D. Hathaway, D-Maine, to Rep. William S. Cohen.

Dick Clark, D-Iowa, to former Lt. Gov. Roger Jepsen.

Wendell Anderson, D-Minn., to Rudy Boschwitz, former GOP national committeeman.

In Virginia, Republican John D. Warner, husband of movie star Elizabeth Taylor, held a 3,000-vote lead over Democrat Andrew P. Miller. With more than one million votes cast, Miller said he would await the outcome of the official canvass Nov. 27. Warner and Miller were seeking the seat vacated by Republican Sen. William Scott.

He said his chance for success in this campaign rests entirely on enough Kentuckians "agreeing with me that their next governor should not take office already shackled to the demands of the few who can afford to pay to get their way."

Graves went on to say that "maybe our country and our state have become so big and so complicated that only the wealthy and well organized can influence the conduct of government."

But, he continued, "I don't think so and I'm sure there are thousands of others who believe as I do."

In addition to setting a limit on campaign contributions, Graves said he has arranged for a certified public accounting firm to monitor and audit all campaign receipts and expenditures to insure the voters of the state that "they haven't been sold out before they vote."

Graves indicated he will begin immediately traveling throughout the state, listening to and talking with Kentuckians about how state government "can better serve all people."

Children's Performance Huge Success

By Carole Hahn

When one person - or a group - plans and saves for a dream over several years, and then the dream becomes a reality... yet it is itself a dream... well...

This riddle-reality came true Friday afternoon for the members of the Music Department of the Murray Woman's Club who started the dream and with their assistance and that of Murray Elementary School, Calloway County Elementary Schools and Fisher-Price brought the real dream to 1400 students in Lovett Auditorium with the Cincinnati Ballet's special performance of Tchaikovsky's music, "The Nutcracker Suite," Act II.

And it was evident that the teachers in the area had done their work well, because the students anxiously clapped saying, "Let it begin!"

And begin it did with Mr. David Blackburn, associate artistic director of the Cincinnati Ballet, who first explained about the "point" shoes the ballerinas wear. He then called on Debra Kelly, a member of the troupe, who demonstrated the various basic ballet positions of feet and hands. A brief synopsis of the first act of "The Nutcracker Suite" followed.

And the performance of Act II began in the "Land of the Sweets." The lovely, filmy costumes of the ballerinas in contrast with the spartan setting created the staging for entrance of the Sugar Plum Fairy and her Consort, and although the synchronization of the group to the music and with each other was ragged, the whole was rather dreamy and somewhat ethereal... and then... and then... smartly attired in a red, white and blue uniform with the enormous head looking very much like the wool nutcrackers familiar in England and Europe, the Nutcracker made his entrance with Clara (Murray's own Miss Rebekah Brock), whom he seats stage left on a "royal" bench to witness the divertissements.

The Spanish Dance was first with two coquettish señoritas and their Don Juan, all of who executed the music with a certain definition and bravado.

The Arabian dancer carried on to the stage on her divan by two "slaves" seductively danced in bare feet with motions like a Siamese dancer. However, she appeared somewhat uncomfortable when carried on the divan because the "slaves" did not stride in unison.

The Chinese pair, one with fan and the other with a bamboo umbrella brought smiles and laughter to the young audience with their antics replete with appropriate facial expressions.

The Miriltions (or reed pipes) were out of synchronization with each other and with the music, one distinct drawback of pre-recorded music with no conductor to follow the action on stage. There was no imagining reed pipes here.

The Russian dance was performed as a solo number and while well executed, the choreographer chose to omit the deep-knee bends and kicks and the wild abandon usually associated with the dancers of this music.

The Waltz of the Flowers... the troupe again not an integrated entity, and where were the flowers (except for tiny garlands around the buns of the hair of the ballerinas).

The Sugar Plum Fairy and her consort performed for Clara (Miss Brock) both in pas de deux and as solos... and the finale brought back on stage each divertissement dancing in character and the whole ensemble together... as the Nutcracker enters once again and takes Clara-by the hand to introduce her to the characters in the dream, and then leave the stage with the "toys" waving good-bye to them.

And, Friday afternoon the curtain fell to thunderous applause and comments of "I liked it!" (from two first graders) and "What a thrilling experience for so many who might never have the opportunity otherwise" (from a teacher).

So, to those of us who have seen other ballets, many done perhaps exquisitely, the afternoon's performance was solely for the children, after all... and it was completely obvious that to them the Cincinnati Ballet's performance of Act II of "The Nutcracker Suite" was a huge success!

The broadcast of Smetana's "The Bartered Bride" — never before put on the air by the Met — will mark the start for this season of the longest continual commercial underwriting of the same program by the same sponsor in the history of radio.

Each program during the 20-week Texaco-Metropolitan season will be heard on WKMS at 91.3 on the FM dial, the public radio voice of Murray State.

Broadcasts will continue through April 14 when the series will end with Wagner's "Parsifal." Listeners will hear two operas never before broadcast by the Metropolitan Opera. In addition to "The Bartered Bride," Benjamin Britten's "Billy Budd" is scheduled March 31.

Other operas in 1978 include: Bizet's "Carmen" Dec. 9; Verdi's "Aida" Dec. 16; Humperdinck's "Hansel and Gretel" Dec. 23; and Strauss'

"Elektra" Dec. 30.

January operas include: Puccini's "Tosca" Jan. 6; Poulenc's "Dialogues of the Carmelites" Jan. 13; Donizetti's "Don Pasquale" in a new production Jan. 20; and Verdi's "Luisa Miller" Jan. 27.

In February, listeners will hear: Massenet's "Werther" Feb. 3; Puccini's "Madama Butterfly" Feb. 10; Mozart's "The Magic Flute" Feb. 17; and Verdi's "Don Carlo" in a new production Feb. 24.

March will bring the following: Verdi's "Rigoletto" March 3; Strauss' "Adriane auf Naxos" March 10; Bellini's "Norma" March 17; Tchaikovsky's "Eugene Onegin" March 24; and Britten's "Billy Budd" March 31.

Wagner's "The Flying Dutchman" is scheduled April 7 before "Parsifal" ends the season April 14.

The usual intermission features will be broadcast when appropriate. These highly-popular, between-the-acts, "mini-shows" will again be developed and produced by Geraldine Souvaine, who has handled this assignment each year for the last 38 seasons.

Machine Shorthand

Course Slated In Spring Semester

An evening course in machine shorthand will be offered at Murray State University for the first time and during the 1979 spring semester.

The course, listed as BOA-131 and which will be offered from 6 to 9 p.m. on Tuesdays, beginning January 16, will be taught by Mrs. Frieda Cox, a secretary in the office of Calloway Commonwealth Attorney Ron Christopher. She has more than 15 years' experience in legal and court reporting.

Participants may register for the class during the advance registration period, Nov. 6 through Nov. 21, between the hours of 9 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. on weekdays, or at the first meeting of the class. Tuition for undergraduate is $20 per semester hour for in-state students and $52 per semester hour for out-of-state students. The class carries three semester hours of undergraduate credit.

According to Dr. Jules Harcourt, chairman of the Department of Business Education and Administrative Management, the course is an introductory one and has been designed to provide coverage of the principles of touch shorthand theory, elementary speed building and beginning transcription. It also is open to students without previous touch shorthand instruction, and who know how to type.

Students, he said, must provide their own machines, adding that an Illinois manufacturer will make them available on a rental basis for a fee of approximately $20 for the duration of the course. Or, if the student so desires, he emphasized, the machines may be purchased.

ACEI Conference Set At MSU

"Children's Literature in the Classroom" will be the topic of the state Association for Childhood Education International (ACEI) conference scheduled at Murray State University Friday evening and Saturday morning, Nov. 10-11.

Sessions during the meeting will include a presentation by students following the dinner in Winslow Cafeteria on Friday evening and two workshops by Murray State faculty on Saturday morning in the Special Education Building.

Students in a children's literature course at Murray State will present the Friday program entitled "Creative Ways to Present Books to Children." Teacher-made materials designed for use in the classroom will also be auctioned on Friday evening.

Workshops Saturday morning include: "How To Make a Children's Book" by Dr. Janice Hooks, associate professor of instruction and learning, from 9:30 to 10:45 a.m.; and "Cardboard Carpentry" by Dr. Ralph Hausman, associate professor of special education, from 11 a.m. to 12:15 p.m.

A business meeting will follow the 12:30 p.m. luncheon at the Colonial House Smorgasbord.

Registration for the conference is $3 for students and $5 for non-members, plus $5 for the Friday dinner and $2.95 for the Saturday luncheon.

Additional information may be obtained by calling Dr. James Carlin at Murray State University (502) 762-2854.

Dr. Hood Appointed To Position At Auburn; Here Since 1973

Dr. Judith Hood, director of Student Health at Murray State University since 1973, has been appointed to the position of Director of Student Health Service at Auburn University, Auburn, Ala.

The Murray doctor came to Murray State in 1973 as student physician. A graduate of the University of Louisville School of Medicine and the University of North Carolina Public Health School, she has had previous administrative and clinical experiences in various local health departments including McCracken and Ballard Counties, and ten years with the Kentucky Department of Health. She also served for two years with the South Carolina Health Department.

During her stay in Murray the Health Center has been upgraded and is now housed in new facilities in the Wells Hall building. The center provides primary medical care to the students and the services include preventative laboratory tests, diagnosis, education, counseling, and treatment and medication for most acute illnesses.

The staff at the Health

Dr. Judith Hood

Center also includes four fulltime and three parttime nurses, half-time laboratory supervisor, and three part-time student technicians.

"The services offered at Murray State can compare with most large university campuses," said Dr. Hood.

The doctor said that Auburn University is a larger school which she feels will offer her more opportunities of service as it provides a larger health center staff. Dr. Hood is married to Hugh L. Hood, auditor for the state, and they have one daughter, Harriet E. Hood, a student at Murray High School.
